A New Hotel. Mr. H. W. Fenton has about decided First M. E. church. The establishment will have all the modern conveniencessteam, bath rooms, elevators, large firstfloor office and sample rooms, and will have the California bay windows extending from the first floor to the roof. It is designed to have the structure front on William street. The location is a desirable one, and in charge of the right man the new hotel could not fail to become a popular institution and bring a large income to the manager. The hotel will have 50 to 100 large rooms, all having frontage on William street or the court yard. The old residence will be torn down during the summer or fall. Accident.

There was serious trouble this morning with a two-burner gasoline stove at the home of Thos. W. Cann on West William etreet. Mrs. Cann had filled the holder with gasoline, and when the match was applied there was a sudden flare-up that threatened to set the kitchen on fire. Mr. Cann rushed in and quickly picked His left hand was badly burned. It was a brave act, but there was little else that ould be done at the time to prevent a onliagration.

The Warren & Durfee Manufacturing Company at the old tray factory are making a valuable attachment to threshing and separating machines, the invention of Wilbur Dunkel. It is known as the stove up and threw it into the yard. the grain metre, and sells at $100. Several of the metres are on exhibition today in full operation, one at Parke's store yard and one at Jesse Fisher's place, The attachment is easily made to any separator, and by means of an elevator spout the grains of wheat or oats are carried up to the metre—a cylinder shaped arrangement—which weights the grain in half bushel lots and sends it down the spout on either side of the separator to the wagon. The simplicity and usefulness of the invention is recogand usefulness of the invention is recognized at a glance, and no farmer or thresher who values speed and the saving of grain can afford to do without the attachment. It saves the work of two men and keeps a correct register of all men and keeps a correct register of all grain sent through the separator. The one shown at Fisher's place was attached to a Peerless thresher and separator, and did its work perfectly. Reunion Exercises at the Opera was the occasion of the tenth annual reunion, reception and banquet, vocal and instrumental music, personal greet-was held at the opera house, beginning shortly after 8 o'clock, and closing at nearly 10. Again was the hall filled to the doors and to the top seat in the gallery, the army of '87 graduates occupying front seats in the parquette. The overture by the orchestra, led by Prof. Bull, opened the exercsies, when prayer was offered by Rev. A. Kinney Hall, of St. John's church. Using a Haines Bros. piano, Anna Henkle, of '83, and Frank Roby, of '81, gave the Faust Waltzes, a very pleasing instrumental duet. Charles Denton, of '84, the retiring president, in throwing off the responsibilities of his position, offered a few appropriate remarks thanking the Alumni for their as sistance in advancing the interests of the association, and presenting the new pres ident, Harry A. Bumstead, of '86, who delivered the address of welcome. He said the reunion of '87 was truly an eventful occasion, as it welcomed to the Alumni the largest class ever graduated from the school, and as the younges member of the association he took great pleasure in formally receiving the class as members. The next response on behalf of the class came from Miss Virginia Smith, whose felicitous remarks provoked much amusement. Miss Mame Freeman, of '86, gave a vocal solo, "Angel's Serenade," with Miss Fannie Ehrman and Leo Heilbran as piano and violin accompanists. The selection was well received. "After Seven Years" was the appropriate stock on hand and are finding eager purchasers. A clock-like indicator on the subject of a highly appreciated essay dechasers. A clock-like indicator on the metre keeps tally of the number of bushlivered effectively by Miss Lillie Chadsey, class of '80. The paper served as a review and partial mention of the characteristics of the various classes sent out of the school since 1880, giving the topics of many of the essays neatly interwoven. The points made hit home every time, as was noticed by the plaudits and whispered conferences and quick glances among the graduates. Music by the orchestra. Miss Ada Boyd, the fair elecutionist of the class of '84, favored the audience, with an annusing recitation, "Friar Philip," a pretty story of how the Friar's son fell a victim to woman's beauty at sight. Miss Boyd's graceful gestures, vocal and facial expressions were perfect The selection was enthusiastically received. The benediction by Rev. Hall closed the exercises. THE BANQUET AND TOASTS. The social feature of the day of days was the reception held at Guards' Armory, where the graduating class and about 125 members of the Alumni assembled to exchange personal greetings, and as boys and girls talk over the happy times they had had at school. While the orchestra played a march, the company promenaded around the banquet tables in pairs and threes, stopping in groups

The banquet was just splendid-a model spread-served by Mrs. Guyton, of "The Roby," who had a watchful attendant at each table. THE MENU.

Farewell—a word that must be and had been A sound which makes us linger—yet—farewell.

Miss Williams' and Miss Gasaway's responses were of a serious character, while those by Mr. Magee and Miss Vaughan were of a humorous nature. Mr. Templeton, in his characteristic style and deep tones, took occusion to boom the interest in the association, and Mr Will Dunn, who received it gracefully and passed it around for all to take a whiff. The feeling good-bye address was spoken by Miss Mamie Abel. During the delivery of the toasts, Bering Burrows led in singing familiar college songs, which greatly enlivened the exercises. At a late hour the festivities closed, and the company dispersed. During the evening Sup't Gaetman passed around the tables, and as has been his custom for many years, personally greeted the pupils who have been in the schools, and who always love to have a word with him and take him by the hand.

farming-raising almost every thing FAILURES IN FARMING. needed for the support of the family-SASURE Why They Are More Common Than They Were Years Ago. has been abandoned for commercial farming-raising crops for the market An old resident of Northern Illinois and buying nearly every article needed states that a larger proportion of persons fail in the business of farming at on the place. It requires greater skill, the present time than was the case when he first moved to the West. Most likely such is the fact. It is also likely that a larger proportion of those who engage in manufacturing and trade fail, or at least do not make any coniderable amount of money in the business in which they engage. Farming, like trade and manufacturing, has beome complicated. To insure success in it requires more skill, ability and more business talent and much larger capital and better judgment to insure success in commercial than in domestic farming. Farming in the North, up to the period of the civil war, was chiefly domestic farming. It did not involve many risks, and comparatively few who were temperate and industrious failed in it. It did not require a skillful trader to get a living by domestic farming, as the sales and purchases were few. The more complicated the business of farming becomes the greater will be the skill, ability, judgment and capital required to conduct it. In comparatively few men are all the qualifications of a good farmer and a successful trader combined. Something more than industry and a fair amount of knowledge of practical agriculture is wanted to insure success in commercial farming and meat production. It is likely that failures in farming will increase as the business secomes more complicated, and that many will be obliged to abandon it for an occupation that requires less executive ability, or become farm laborers in the employ of others .- Chicago could manufacturers make money by
